WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Issued by Publicity Commissioner, Government Buildings, Edmonton.

The Provincial Government seed cleaning and grading plant at Edmonton has been closed for the season, and no more cleaning will be done until after the grain from the new crop comes in the fall.

Co-operative Hay Shipping
The Co-operative Livestock Shipping Association at Coronation reports successful shipments of hogs and cattle to the Calgary Stockyards. On a $9.50 market for hogs, selling expenses, freight, commissions, insurance, etc., absorbed about 50 cents per 100 pounds, leaving the producers $9.00 per 100 lbs. of the cars at Calgary. The shrinkage between Coronation and Calgary was 3.5-4 pounds per hog. The farmers producing the hogs considered the co-operative shipping very satisfactory.

New Acts Take Effect
Alberta's new debt adjustment act will become effective on June 1st. Commissioner E. J. Frieson, of the public utilities board, who is commissioner for the Drought Relief Act in southern Alberta, has been appointed director for the new act.

The provisions of The Children of Unmarried Parents Act comes into effect on June 1st.
The Slot Machine Tax Act becomes operative on June 1st. This Act imposes a license fee of $50.00 per year for these machines. A test case in connection with this Act will be taken to the courts.

Montana Has Her Troubles
The Scientific Farmer, published at Missoula, Montana, contains the results of the past couple of years' drought conditions in Montana when it asks: "What is the situation in Montana?" During the past two years one hundred banks have failed, twenty-five per cent of the farmers have been abandoned, and fifty thousand people have left the state.

Western Cattle Are Healthy
Alberta purchased cattle which were entered in the accredited herd tests for the year ending March 31st, 1922, came through with next to the lowest record of reactors, being second to British Columbia which was the cleanest with a percentage of 2.4 per cent reactors, while Alberta had 6.02 per cent. The report of the veterinary director-general, which has just been issued shows that there were in all 52,943 head of cattle tested in Canada, of which there were 4,740 reactors, a percentage of 14.79, the compensation paid being $633,161.

Part of Sedgewick Farm Sold
The Provincial Government has recently disposed of a portion of the Demonstration Farm at Sedgewick, which was established there several years ago. The half section sold comprised the main part of the farm, and on which the farm buildings were located. The province still owns a half section to the south of the portion sold, and under the agreement the Government retains one dwelling and two barns which will be moved to this part of the farm. It is planned to dispose of the remainder of the farm as soon as possible. In the meantime, the half section still held by the Department of Agriculture will be rented for the present year.

Trans-Canada Highway
On Tuesday morning the plans for the Trans-Canada Highway were laid before the Minister of Public Works by Dr. Doolittle, President of the Canadian Automobile Association. So far as Alberta is concerned we will have two branches of the main highway. This highway runs from Halifax to Regina, where it forks, one branch going west by way of Moose Jaw, Medicine Hat, Calgary and Banff to Vancouver, and the other going west by Saskatoon, Battleford, Edmonton and Jasper Park to Vancouver. This will put a main line highway through each of Alberta's great National Parks. Mr. Ross, Minister of Public Works, approved of the plans and said he intended to make a personal inspection of the Jasper Highway route. He left this week on this trip of inspection.

Highway Engineers Meet
H. Keith, District Road Inspector for Alberta, Lethbridge; Mr. Harlow, State Highway Engineer, Montana; and a Dominion Government engineer, held a conference at Cardston this week to discuss the "park to park" highway.

Tendered Banquet
On Wednesday night, members of the medical profession and engineers of Edmonton tendered a banquet to Prof. J. B. Collip, of the University of Alberta, in recognition of his share in the discovery of "insulin" used in the treatment of diabetes.

Grasshopper Campaign
Officials of the Department of Agriculture have completed a survey of the province and have the grasshopper pest eradication campaign well organized and functioning. The central supply stations at Edmonton, Calgary, Munson, Medicine Hat and Lethbridge are equipped with supplies for the campaign. The campaign will be made. The provincial organization covering the unorganized portions of the province is complete, a number of the officials who were on the work last year being employed. Last year's work has given them valuable experience, and last year's equipment at mowing stations is also available for any work which may be required this year. The same thing is true of the organized municipalities; they are in good shape to take up the work where necessary. It is anticipated that the good results of last season's energetic campaign will minimize the work for this year. The roadside grasshopper has been pretty well cleaned up, any trouble this year is expected to come from the Lesser Migratory Grasshopper. Professor Strickland, Government Entomologist, is this week in the Peace River country investigating reports from that part of the province.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Mr. Grouch, "here is an account of a Kentucky girl who thought she was marrying a prince, only to discover he was nothing but a dishwasher."
"Well," retorted his wife bitterly, "I married you, but you have made a dishwasher out of me."

BONAR LAW RESIGNS

Country Greatly Shocked at Forced Decision of the Premier.

(Crowded out last week.)
London, May 29.—Right Hon. Andrew Bonar Law, the prime minister, sent his resignation to the king last Sunday night because of ill-health; he was unable to present it personally. Thus ends the Canadian-born premier's brief, but eventful administration, and it ends with important and perplexing problems, particularly Great Britain's relations with France and Russia, unsettled.

The king will summon one of the Conservative leaders to form a new cabinet. It is generally expected that Marquis Curzon will be the next premier.

The crisis comes upon the government in the midst of the holiday, when parliament is dispersed and few members of the government are in London.

Country Not Prepared for the Announcement

Two days ago when the result of Mr. Bonar Law's consultation with physicians in Paris became known, this end was foreseen, but the country was not prepared for it and will await developments with anxiety and regrets over the untimely dropping of a valued leader.

One consolation, it is generally conceded, Mr. Bonar Law will have, is that he has no enemies and that no one will withhold their sympathy. He accepted his high office with reluctance; he leaves it amidst unfeigned regrets on the part of both supporters and opposition.

Mr. Bonar Law's resignation was taken to the king at Aldershot by Col. Waterhouse, the prime minister's private secretary, and Sir Frederick Sykes, his son-in-law, who motored from London. They had a lengthy audience with the king, who appeared much moved by the news of the aggravated condition of Mr. Bonar Law's health.

It is officially stated that the king has no intention of interrupting his visit to Aldershot. In any case, he has no intention of an hour's drive from London. According to present plans he will return to Buckingham Palace Friday.

Wife—"Funny about those strawberries I bought. They look red, but they are hard and sour."
Hub—"My dear, the redness of early strawberries does not indicate ripeness; they are merely blushing at the price that is charged for them."

EDIBLE MUSHROOMS

Paper by Mrs. Powell Before Natural History Society

Mrs. Aline Powell, Victoria Avenue, at the May meeting of the Natural History Society, gave a most interesting paper on Mushrooms, which Mrs. Powell has made a specialty. The paper was accompanied by a number of slides, showing in a very convincing manner the different varieties and forms of the plant, which materially helped out the understanding of the various varieties.

Mrs. Powell said—
Mushrooms, toadstools, fungi, mildew, all need warmth and moisture. They will not grow either in hot or cold places, but the best or mycelium will grow after being exposed to great heat or intense cold. The yeast cake is nothing but dried fungi, and that is why we will only raise the flour when it is warm and moist; if it is either too hot or too cold, it will not rise or grow. The inhabitants of Canton are said to suffer extremely for about six weeks in the fall from a very intense growth of mildew, bread, fruit, vegetables, all are covered with some kind of fungus while the climate is warm and moist. Ergot is a fungus of the rice much used for medicinal purposes.

There is a fungus that is killing the chestnut trees all over the world, and they cannot find a really good preventive for it; the wild trees are being destroyed wholesale. Also, the grape vines are being destroyed in large quantities by a very bad form of fungi, but I believe they are beginning to cope with that.

If we are more concerned with edible mushrooms or toadstools, I can't find any difference between mushrooms, some of which are being eaten or poisonous. The Enky (toadstool) is one of the most delicious and a very safe one for beginners to gather and eat. The most poisonous mushrooms are closely allied to the common meadow mushroom, and easily mistaken for it. I think that is the reason why so many people are afraid of mushrooms, hence we need to learn more about them.

A knowledge of a few edible mushrooms, also of a few poisonous ones should be useful to the people on the farms, also to surveyors and prospectors, and to construction camps, as I consider a nice plate of mushrooms equally as good as a plate of beefsteak and far more palatable during the hottest weather. The Enky (toadstool) is one of the most delicious and a very safe one for beginners to gather and eat. The most poisonous mushrooms are closely allied to the common meadow mushroom, and easily mistaken for it. I think that is the reason why so many people are afraid of mushrooms, hence we need to learn more about them.

Mushrooms are known by the character of the cap and pleura, the under side of the pleura or the gills, the stem or stipe, the veil or curtain around the stem, the cap or volva, shaped like a basin in the ground, the mushroom growing out of it; the shape of the spores or basidia of the mushrooms which must be magnified many times to determine the shape and size. The most poisonous mushrooms, some of the Amanitas, contains the poison known as muscarine, one of the lox-albumens, the same poison as is found in the rattlesnakes and other venomous animals. It would be interesting to know if the mushrooms and snakes were found in the same locality or if both might be absent. The most very poisonous mushroom, the Fly Amanita, contains muscarine, which paralyzes the nervous controlling the muscles of the heart.

No one is immune from either of these poisons. Mushrooms can only live on organic matter. They cannot, like vegetables, live on inorganic matter. There is a very common mushroom that does enormous damage to the railroads; it grows on the ties and sometimes on the rails, and splits them apart. The Scaly Lentulus; if you walk on the line after rain, you may be pretty sure of finding enough for a meal. The cap is from 3 to 5 inches across, whitish, tough, with fine dark or nearly black scales towards the middle. It is very nice if gathered in its young state and gently stewed, then add butter and pepper and salt; or could be boiled in milk. It is found from May till August; a very safe one, if once identified from others very closely resembling it. The toadstool is also a very reliable one for stewed.

The shaggy mane, the inkly toadstool, the glesting micaceous, being the best known species of this genus. The morels are all edible. Some people say they are the only edible mushrooms. They are very easily distinguished, somewhat resembling a pine cone and found under coniferous trees.

The Puffballs are all edible and very good if eaten in the young state before turning brown; they are nice fried or stewed.

There are, of course, many other edible mushrooms, but they need great care in selecting for there is no real test, such as their turning black or yellow, but you have to know your mushroom.

It is extremely interesting study, and also profitable, from a monetary point of view, mushrooms being quite easily grown either out of doors or in cellars, sheds, or even under verandahs. Now would be the time to plant. Most seedmen sell the bricks of spawn which are broken up and placed in nice rich soil, then covered with straw or cocoa matting.

BANTING TELLS HOW INSULIN EFFECTS CURE

Toronto, May 24.—Striking instances of the success of the insulin treatment were given to the delegates attending the fifth annual conference of the Ontario Health Officers' association here, Wednesday, by Dr. G. Banting, the discoverer, who delivered an address on "Insulin in the treatment of diabetes."

He displayed a chart showing the record of a diabetic child. Prior to the use of insulin the child was given a very careful and special diet treatment, which served only to prolong its life. It was, Dr. Banting said, one of the thinnest children he had ever seen; the skin was like that of a wizened old man, and the child was continually whining and crying.

"It has now doubled its weight," said Dr. Banting. "It is running around as children normally do and is going to start back to school."

Dr. Banting extended his diabetic treatment for diabetes, insulin not being used at the present time in the milder cases, and to the great demand. The time was gradually being reached when "insulin" could be supplied as needed.

LEGS WORTH $150,000 TO HIM

A story that he was placed in Irons for 11 days, ultimately causing the amputation of both legs, because he represented the Captain's alleged disregard of union seamen's rules, was told to his attorney last week at New York by Amadeo J. Jaffery, known as "Frenchy."

Amadeo, now a patient in the Chelsea Marine Hospital at Boston, came to New York to testify against the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship Company in its suit for $150,000 damages. That company owned the Siboney, the ship upon which Amadeo served.

Two days out from Havana, runs "Frenchy's" yarn, he was ordered to cover a lookout that had been painted. He told the second mate, he said, that such a task constituted manual labor and that union rules called for double time for all manual labor after 6 p.m.

"I went down to get my book," narrated "Frenchy." "I showed the Captain the union rules. He said, 'Hang the union!' and said, 'You're a mutinyer!' and he had me placed in Irons."

"Frenchy" said he was left in the unventilated pantry, where for 11 days he lay uncovered and delirious. He was discharged and paid off when the Siboney reached its Spanish destination, he said. "There were long black marks on his back," he said, "when he was shipped to the United States."

His legs constantly became worse, and finally gangrene set in. At Port McHenry Hospital, Baltimore, his left leg was amputated, and within a few months the right one was taken off.

NEED GREAT CARE AFTER WEANING

Critical Time With Little Pigs—Strive to Keep Their Appetites Keen

The first few weeks after weaning is a critical time in a pig's life. Proper care and management will mean profit, while improper care and management will mean loss.

The age at which to wean depends upon the size and vigor of the pigs, and the feeds and their amounts available. There is a right time to wean, and if they are weaned too late, the sow is unnecessarily weakened, and if they are weaned too soon the pigs will not do well. If there is plenty of feed, especially skim milk, and the pigs are strong and robust, they may be weaned at eight weeks. If they are not strong, it would be well to wait for a few weeks longer.

Never Return Sow

Take the sow away from the pigs at once, and never return her. This leaves the pigs in their accustomed quarters. For the first few days, watch the sow and litter closely. Put the sow far enough away so that she cannot hear her pigs. Feed her a limited amount of grain ration of dry corn for two or three days, as this will tend to dry her up.

The fundamental principle in feeding weaned pigs is to keep them with keen appetites. Feed just as much as they will clean up readily, and keep increasing the amounts gradually as the pigs grow. Feed at least twice a day and feed regularly. These are the two essentials. Abrupt changes are to be avoided, as digestive troubles may result.

A word of caution is necessary. The pigs at this age have very greedy appetites, and they are very apt to gorge themselves, which will result in potbellies. Feed often, but never all that they would like to eat. Green feed, such as alfalfa pasture, is needed, and is of great value.

TRAFFIC IN SLAVES

AN ABYSSINIAN SCOURGE

The following extracts from a letter written to the London, England, Times by Henry A. C. Darley, Major, R. F. A. late Frontier Force, S. W. Abyssinia, will be read with a good deal of interest by people interested in the British Empire and what it stands for, because while the League of Nations is getting ready to take steps a race is dying.

It is realized that in Southern Abyssinia, a strip of territory 300 miles square, has been depopulated and devastated by slave traders, and that in this area over a million people have been killed or removed into bondage through the Bay of Tadjura and elsewhere, since Megelek's death? The Bay of Tadjura is surrounded by that small speck of territory called French Somaliland, which faces Arabia and the Gulf of Aden. It was through the port of Aden that the Abyssinians obtained the cannon, rifles, and ammunition with which they defeated the Italians at the Battle of Adowa, and it has always been through this route that the Had Mahab, who troubled us for so many years, was able to supply himself with munitions of war. The agreement between the civilized Powers not to supply weapons and slave raiding tribes with arms of precision reduced Jibuti and the Bay to despair, since it virtually stopped trade between Europe and Abyssinia.

Of late years, since the death of the Emperor Megelek in 1912, the recrudescence of slavery in Abyssinia has restored the hopes of many of the show-voicing residents of the Bay of Tadjura. On the death of that famous monarch the great part of Abyssinia reverted to anarchy. The Governors of the richer southern part of the country used their provinces as a means of enrichment, and the life of their reging was a precarious one, for a change of power in the capital, Addis Ababa, might any time mean their removal from office.

During Megelek's reign the conqueror of negro races of the South of Abyssinia, commonly called Shannallas, had been treated as serfs, and had not been removed from their homes in any large numbers since their conquest.

On the death of Megelek, each governor seized and sold the population of his district as quickly as he could to a new master, until now one can travel from the British boundary of Kenya Colony northwards through Abyssinia, without seeing a soul. The route lies through country which was formerly a slave land, and the telltale signs of the height of the bush in what used to be a fertile land, tell plainly the age of the destruction of each homestead. The depopulated areas extend from Jibuti (Dembra) in Abyssinia, to Toposa (Dushan) in the Sudan, which lie 120 miles over the frontier into British territory. The inhabitants of this large territory have all been killed or carried north into Abyssinia proper, and when Abyssinia could take no more and advanced trade in slaves has been in progress.

As such a large Southern Abyssinia devastated that the Government now demands hard put to find money to pay their taxes to their supreme lord at Addis Ababa.

For the past two or three years they have sent such unfortunate as they could collect to the capital in lieu of money, but now this resort has come to an end. They are asking themselves what they can do. Their eyes have been turned south again towards British territory. They see daily vast numbers of natives living in peace and comfort, surrounded by their cattle and property, protected only by a few white men and their native police—a negligible force which any minor Abyssinian chief might easily overwhelm. Raids have been made into Kenya territory. It was recently announced that a strong force of Abyssinians was marching on Moyale and that the Kenya Government had reinforced that place.

So far the Abyssinians, who have, in fact, completely wiped out a few small and insignificant tribes living along the boundary, have escaped the consequences of their action. Addis Ababa denies all knowledge of these proceedings. This cannot last much longer. It is only a question of time before raids on a larger scale, and more skillfully organized, will be made, not into Kenya only, but into other territories bordering Abyssinia. The French have a patrol-post in the bay, whose task it is to stop the slave trade between Abyssinia and Arabia, through Obock and the Tadjura Bay generally, across the thirty miles of sea which here divide Africa from Asia, but what can one small patrol boat do?

In 1920 a Foreign Office mission travelling through Abyssinia reported the hideous rivers of Central and of all this barbarism? The League of Nations has promised to take up the question next September. The representations have already been made by the combined representatives of several countries. They have invariably resulted in the issue of a notice declaring that slavery and

DAIRY INDUSTRY HAS MADE GREAT STRIDES

Commissioner Ruddick Tells of Progress in Australia and New Zealand

Dairy Commissioner J. A. Ruddick, who returned recently from Australia and New Zealand, where he was investigating the dairying industries, has furnished the following statement respecting his trip:

"Mr. W. A. Wilson, of Regina, and I were most cordially received by Government officials, factory managers and others connected with the dairying industry and given every facility both in New Zealand and Australia to gather information. My former connection with the dairy industry in New Zealand during the 23 years since I was there. The factories which were show-places in my time are now more or less out of date, many new ones have been erected and old ones have been rebuilt and the matter of quality and quantity. Both these countries are devoting their energies towards improving quality regardless of cost or inconvenience.

"We do not propose to anticipate our report at this time, but I merely wish to say that Canada is going to meet very much keener competition from these countries in the future than she has in the past, both in the matter of quality and quantity. Both these countries are devoting their energies towards improving quality regardless of cost or inconvenience.

"Mr. Wilson and I collected a large amount of information which is now being prepared for publication and will be made available to the dairymen of this country as soon as possible."

ELOPING PRIEST CAUGHT IN TORONTO

Described as a Roman Catholic priest from the United States, a man giving his name as E. Souleyrie, a Mrs. Margaret Bushard, both of Chicago, were arrested last week in a rooming house on Sherbourne street, Toronto, by Detective-Sergeant Archibald and another officer on a charge of elopement and violation of the Immigration Act. The police discovered a loaded automatic pistol, a Catholic prayer-book, manual beads in the couple's room. After a visit to police headquarters, the couple were taken to the Dominion Immigration authorities, apparently for action leading to deportation. The pair had been living as man and wife at the Sherbourne Street house for the past five weeks. They stated that they came from Tennessee when the woman laid the charge and came to Toronto with a Chicago detective armed with the necessary warrants. He saw his wife at headquarters. After a communication from the police departments of the two cities the couple were traced through their baggage. Souleyrie stated that he was looking for work in Toronto. When it was suggested to him that it was a strange thing for a priest to run off with another man's wife, Souleyrie stated to have said: "A fellow has to have a good time in his life while he has no clerical clothing among his effects and when arrested was wearing a dark suit. The couple will be taken back to Chicago."

A FEW STITCHES

"Stitch! Stitch! Stitch!" wrote Thomas Hoot in the song of the Shirt. Can the woman in his poem have worked harder than the one who with her bright needle took more than twenty thousand stitches in a "plain" shirt for her grandfather? Home's Every Day Book, a very old volume, gives this itemized account of her work:

Stitching the collar, four rows
Sewing the ends 3,000 stitches
Buttonholes 150 stitches
Setting on collar and gathering neck, 1,200 stitches
Stitching wristbands 1,228 stitches
Sewing the ends 68 stitches
Buttonholes 244 stitches
Hemming skirts 244 stitches
Gathering sleeves 840 stitches
Sewing on wristbands 1,468 stitches
Stitching shoulder straps
Hemming the neck 1,880 stitches
Sewing the sleeves 320 stitches
Setting in sleeves and gussets 1,254 stitches
Taping the sleeves 1,620 stitches
Sewing the seams 848 stitches
Setting side gussets 244 stitches
Hemming the bottom 1,104 stitches
Total 20,046 stitches

THREE DAUGHTERS LOSE LIVES TRYING TO SAVE MOTHER

Mountain Lake Park, Md., May 24.—Fate today interfered in summer vacation plans of Mrs. Mary O'Connor, 94, and her three grown-up daughters, who arrived here this morning, and as a result the four are dead.

They met death when burning gases ignited accumulated gas in the cottage occupied by Mrs. O'Connor. The three daughters were some distance from the cottage when the explosion occurred. When they reached the building it was a mass of flames. Disregarding their own safety, they rushed into the cottage in an attempt to rescue their mother. They never came out.

Alma—"Is having your ears pierced for earrings painful?"
Bella—"Not half so much as allowing them to be bored for an engagement ring."

WILSON'S VULCANIZING WORKS
1st Street S.W.

The changing panoramas of mountains and valleys along the Skeena and Bulkley Rivers of Central British Columbia holds the traveler's constant attention as areas of supreme scenic grandeur unfold themselves as the train skirts valleys and rivers, or winds around mountains, bringing to view quaint Indian villages, with Totem poles of the tribes, or here and there salmon canneries or mining towns. Interest alternates rapidly along this portion of the Canadian National Railway. Bulkley Gorge and Bulkley Canon are features of great interest, whilst the Bulkley Valley is characterized by its wealth of agricultural land comprising the fertile valley of Central British Columbia.

Gossard Corsets

Front-Lacing

Gossard quality guarantees you what you never before have been able to buy: a $2.50 corset guaranteed by a name and reputation that must be safeguarded.

Model 200 is a curved corset that will fit the average to stout. The ample top graduates to a slightly higher back to care for excess flesh at the shoulder-blades; the medium length skirt has sufficient fullness to insure comfort through hips and thighs, and is characterized by very flat back lines; made in plain cotton in white; sizes 21 to 32.

Model 202 is designed for the slight to medium figures; the low top curves under the bust to a slightly higher support at back; the skirt slopes to longer lines over hips and thighs, graduating to a medium length, very flat back, which terminates in a 2-inch elastic section; made in pink batists; sizes 20 to 27.

Gossard "Longerlyne" Brassieres

These new models are designed to meet the needs of those who require special shaping to properly support and flatten the diaphragm and who need added length to prevent their brassieres from slipping up over the low hips of the modern corsets.

Number 329 is designed for average or full figure; it is cut extra long, has reinforced diaphragm piece, elastic sections extending from front to back section; hooks in back; sizes 38 to 44.

WOMEN'S PINK BLOOMERS 85c pair

Made from fine quality pink batiste elastic shirred waist, hemstitched trim all shirred elastic knee; all sizes.

We will have No Half-Holidays in June

For convenience and better service to our customers, this store does not close on Wednesday in May and June for the purpose of giving half-holidays on Wednesday.

We propose closing all day Wednesday in July and August, excepting in Exhibition week and any week in which there is another holiday.

This change in half-holiday arrangement is made because May and June are two of the most active months, while July and August are the most inactive months in the whole year, and it has the endorsement and unqualified approval of every customer whom we have had an opportunity of consulting.

YOUR HERITAGE

By Kate Randle Menefee.

How can you say that life's a weary game.

Monotonous and drugged with pain and care.

When the great realm of thought so glorious Lies all about you beckoning everywhere?

Unhindered and unfettered you may Each morning down some rapturous unknown trail;

Each evening when the day's last task is done Drink fresh from out some jewelled holy grail.

How can you say that life's a weary game.

When you are heir to kingdoms so sublime; When wonder-phases in which God's angels keep Your heritage which shall outlast all time?

MOTHER'S FACE

On the tablets of my memory there is painted a face—sweet and kind.

I see it in my dreams at night and it leads to my pillow a softness as of love's caress.

It comes before me—unbidden and unannounced—in the stress of busy days, making duty a joy and placing wings beneath burdens.

I have seen this face, not once or twice, when the tempter beckoned, and, lo! the good, safe way was made clear!

When dark clouds gathered and the path seemed like night, that face appeared, rifting the shadows and scattering the mists.

Often, when anger whispered, "Vengeance!" and fate said, "Strike!" then that face has appeared, smothering the hot fires of malice, and holding in leash the tongue that would revile again.

Many times, when walking among the weak and unwelcome of earth, that face has caused me to reach down in pity, rather than turn away in scorn.

Always, when doubts come and anxieties, that face shines as if a flaming sword between these dark things and my soul.

This face never comes alone. Associated with it are treasures, inexhaustibly precious.

There is a smile as beautiful as a summer sunrise!

There is a voice whose music is like a harp, angel-touched!

There is a love that never falters! There are hands made glorious by the scars of unselfish service!

There are feet always swift to go on errands of mercy!

There is a prayer that opens the gates of heaven!

There is a faith that removes greater things than mountains!

There is a hope that blazes the road, through the shadows, to the goal!

There is a patience which forgives and endures, where it can not conquer!

All these, and more, are woven, as a halo, around this face, of my dreams.

And whose face is that, that leads its beauty to the day that now is, and promises to outlive all the days yet unborn?

It is mother's face—yours and mine! Just everybody's mother!

Mrs. Newby—"Why did you tell the neighbors that you married me because I was such a good cook, when you knew I couldn't even boil a potato?"

Mrs. Newby—"I had to make some excuse, my dear."

She—"Papa says you have more money than brains."

Reggie—"Hah! Shows what an ass he is. I'm broke!"

She—"Yes, Papa added that you were."

LONDON'S SUPREMACY

London has regained the financial ascendancy of the world, which for a few years, because of the stress of war, was removed to United States.

This is one of the most remarkable and unexpected events of the closing of the war. Britain had departed from its gold basis, it had lost a substantial part of its financial investments, it had accrued enormous foreign obligations, was faced with disastrous industrial depression and was weighed down with a taxation, relatively greater than that borne by any other nation.

Its main source of revenue—its foreign credit—income from shipping—was depleted. It was a solvent debtor. A bank deposit in England could no longer be translated into gold.

But within four years London has regained the old supremacy and is the financial center of the world. This assurance is made very clear by Francis A. Vanderlip, a prominent United States financier, in a recent issue in the New York Times.

"London is again the center of world financial business," the pound sterling is again the dominant force in writing letters of credit. Foreign borrowers find more favorable terms in London than elsewhere.

It comes before me—unbidden and unannounced—in the stress of busy days, making duty a joy and placing wings beneath burdens.

I have seen this face, not once or twice, when the tempter beckoned, and, lo! the good, safe way was made clear!

When dark clouds gathered and the path seemed like night, that face appeared, rifting the shadows and scattering the mists.

Reggie—"Hah! Shows what an ass he is. I'm broke!"

She—"Yes, Papa added that you were."

Seventeen miles out from the little village of X—, in Missouri, lived an old bachelor named Bill Green, who made his living by hunting and trapping.

In those days the wild turkeys were plentiful in the last ten years of the century in wild turkeys and deer and he then served as guide to hunting parties and to fishers.

The season had opened, and a party of sportsmen from Kansas City had secured old Bill's services.

In the party was a young fellow who evidently had had some experience in shooting deer, but whose stories of his achievements were exaggerated and long; the other members of the party were tired of his boasting. They were astonished therefore when old Bill, who by nature was taciturn, said to the young fellow:

"Say now, that reminds me of the other mornin'. I got up just 'fore day and went down to the deer lick as I always do, and there in the bright moonlight stood a great big buck. I raised my gun and was ready to fire when I noticed on the limb just above him a turkey roostin' in a row. At first I was puzzled when to shoot at the turkeys or the deer. Then all at once I thought of a plan. I crept a little nearer and aimed at the limb where the turkeys sat. I fired away, and at the same instant I threw my gun and knocked down the buck; in a second I ran up and killed him. Then I looked above where I had shot and split the limb, which held every one of them turkeys by the toes. Well, sir, I took down the turkeys, tied them together, and hung them round my neck; then I threw the buck over my shoulder and started for home, well satisfied even if I'd got no more game that morning. But, as I was wadin' the creek the fish smelted the blood on my clothes and they ran up my breeches leavin' three breaches, bein' full big, got so heavy I could hardly walk. And when I tried to step out on the bank the top button busted off and killed a rabbit ten steps away!"

Needless to remark, the young sportsman was silent for the rest of the day.

CHARITATIVENESS AND HOUSEWORK

"Physical culture is awfully interesting!" cried the eager girl who had just come back from boarding school for a vacation. "Look, papa, to develop the arms I tramp the red carpet—this way and then move it slowly from right to left. Do you see?"

"Wonderful!" replied the father in admiration. "What extraordinary things teachers have discovered! If you had a dumb straw at the end of that rod you'd be sweeping."

ECONOMIC VALUE OF DAIRY PRODUCTS

The educational work being carried on by the Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Branch is progressing apace, and there is the best reason to believe its having its effect in an increased domestic consumption of dairy products.

The consumption of cheese, butter, and especially milk is greater per capita in Canada today than it has ever been before.

Least significant of these facts, Miss Helen Campbell, demonstrator and lecturer of the Branch, who has recently been engaged in enlisting the services of women's institutes, school teachers and other workers, locally, in the campaign of education in the value to health and prosperity of dairy products, points out that beyond their commercial importance is their economic importance.

Every household, indeed, every person in the land, is interested in the price of sugar. Even when it is cheapest it is one of the largest items in the family budget, and when the price is high the increased cost either compounds the family budget or it is a heavy burden on the family income.

Sugar is now high. What caused the rise in price? Until we know the answer to that question it is useless to inquire what can be done to reduce or mitigate the cause. Instead of there being any agreement about it, there are acute and sometimes angry controversies.

The usual, and what may be termed the natural, explanation of price fluctuations is the law of supply and demand. A short crop or an abnormal demand causes the price to rise.

A very large crop or a lessening of consumption compels dealers to lower the price. But market values are not always determined by such a simple rule. Speculation promotes and accelerates natural tendencies.

The great city exchanges undoubtedly have a powerful influence on the movement of prices; but whether it is a matter of demand or supply is a matter of dispute. Sometimes government measures affect prices by restriction of supply or by other means.

Each one of the three explanations just mentioned has strong supporters and earnest opponents. It is not denied, for the trade statistics are undeniable, that in the last ten years the consumption of sugar has increased greatly—in this country, it is probably doubled.

Such a large increase in the demand for a commodity which is produced in small quantities in this country, is a matter of course, makes some increase in price inevitable.

There is a further factor to consider, the opinion of many careful students of trade movements, such an immoderate increase in the demand for a commodity, such as sugar, is a matter of course, makes some increase in price inevitable.

JUNE ROD AND GUN

The brotherhood of anglers ought to be particularly pleased with the June issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, because it is the Fishing Number, and because it features that splendid sport generally. In fact, the June issue, which is now on the shelves, is a collection of attractive material that it is certain to be an absolute treat for fishermen all over Canada.

"Fishing on the Great Slave Lake" is a rattling good story and illustrated profusely. Speculating a "Devilfish" is a story that is different, while there are many others equally good. But, notwithstanding, the June issue is a number, and there are other features. There is a big, generous Guns and Ammunition department, W. C. Motley's new "Outdoor Talk" department, as well as the other regular departments, and a large collection of miscellaneous material that rounds out a top-notch magazine.

Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly at Woodstock, Ontario, by W. J. Taylor, Limited.

PERFECT AT LAST

As Margerie's school reports, say the Boston Transcript, weren't entirely satisfactory, her father said to her, "The first time that you come home with a hundred in anything I'll give you a dollar."

Time went by, and still Margerie could not claim the reward. Then one day the child was taken ill. When the doctor had gone she asked, "Mamma, am I very sick?"

"No, dear; your temperature is a hundred, but the doctor thinks you'll be better tomorrow."

Margerie's face lighted up: "Then, mamma, I can have my dollar, can't I? Papa said he'd give it to me if I got a hundred in anything."

SECOND: FORTNIGHTLY

CROP REPORT

Issued by the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, May 25th, 1923.

Wheat seeding in the province finished and in many sections the crops are up and looking healthy and vigorous. The total wheat acreage will be somewhat under that of last year, but on the whole it is considered that the seeding was done in better shape and on better prepared land. Oats and barley and fodder crop seeding is now progressing. In portions of Central Alberta, where the early rainfall has been light some of the oat seeding was held back awaiting rains. The indications are that considerable oat

Most sections of the southern prairie report that the grain is coming along in fine shape. In parts of central and northern Alberta there have been no good showers, while in other sections there is more rainfall is needed. On the 2nd, a fine rain fell in the east central part of Alberta extending from Maskatchewan as far west as Ryley. At Irma there was seven hours' rainfall and at Vermilion one-fifth of an inch. The Grande Prairie district has ina at Peace River and at Berwyry. In other sections of the northoday rain is falling at Edmonton and the showers are reported as far south s Red Deer. Last week frost was reported from some sections, but only one or two spots was any damage young crops reported.

From nearly all parts of Southern Alberta a large increase in the acreage sown to fodder crops is reported.
A considerable new alfalfa acreage has been sown, also a large acreage of corn and sunflowers, indicating that crops are giving more attention to dairying. Sweetwater wintered well in Central Alberta. Fall rye in some sections a foot high. In places the fall wheat was winter killed where water laid over or where it was not covered.

With anything like a normal supply of rainfall during the growing season the early crop indications would appear to be very fair, the acreage some what less than last year, and the seedling period in most parts very favorable.

Pasture in the central and northern parts of Alberta is short, and will be benefited by good rainfalls. Last week's supplies of fodder have been son failed to hold his grounder. McDonald went in to bat for O'Brien, and came through with a beautiful two-base hit to left, scoring Longman and Russell. Dittburner grounded out to finish the inning and the scoring for the visitors.

Grasshoppers. Any danger of a real menace from the grasshoppers has not yet developed. The whole country was well organized last year, and the work done is showing good effects this season. The Department of Agriculture has the organization already in the field and is well prepared to meet any trouble which may arise. So far the reports have not been serious.

AFRICAN NATIVES

NO CAMERA MEN
So Martin Johnson, Big Game Hunter, Learned

"One of the circumstances which hampered us somewhat on our two year expedition into British East Africa was the utter inability of the natives whom we took with us to work any of the motion picture cameras," says Martin Johnson, the well-known naturalist whose remarkable photograph, "Trailing African Wild Animals," released by Metro Pictures Corporation, is a complete record of animal life in the wilds of Africa. This amazing film is now being presented at the Rex Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday.

"Is this the Fire Department?" yelled over the phone.

"Yes, what do you want?"

"How far is it to the nearest alarm box? My laboratory is on fire and I must turn in the call at once!"

CONDOR NEWS

Showers, relieved by warm sunshine, is having a marked effect on the pastures and grain fields, and the beautiful rich green starting to wave in the breeze is good to look upon.

The Ladies' Institute held a most enjoyable concert and dance last week. Among the prominent artists were Mr. Roughton, of Calgary, and little five-year-old Edgar, of Condor, who rendered a piano solo. Hespero-talent gave a little play, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Thredgold of Hespero also sang.

We are glad to hear that Randle Mayberry is improving, and hope to see him out again soon.

The sports held at Condor on May 24th were well attended. Many "mats" from the Mountain House, Alhambra, Leslieville and other points, Alhambra put it all over the Condor boys at baseball, the final score being 22 to 6. On the other hand, the Condor girls won over the Alhambra girls at basketball, the score being 14 to 12. This was a good game, and both teams show the results of faithful practice.

In football the married men scored one goal against none by the single men. The teams were very evenly matched, and the lone goal was scored just before final time.

The day closed with a most successful dance at the Community Hall, breaking up about daylight on the 25th.

The district was visited by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pixley looking for polo ponies. They expect to be out again next month.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Arthur Brisbane, chief editor of the William Randolph Hearst newspapers, in a recent front page editorial which appeared in a number of newspapers throughout the United States, wrote as follows:

"What's the value of a name built up by advertising, and giving good value? Ask Henry Ford."

Last Friday stocks were dropping. Wall Street tears were dropping with the stocks, and Henry Ford chose that VERY moment for a little statement concerning his pocketbook, filed with the Massachusetts commission of corporations.

You will go a long way to find a more cheerful financial statement than Henry Ford's.

Last February he had $109,000,000 in cash—more change as it were—and he has added about sixty millions to that since February.

His gains in what seems to have been a prosperous year are as follows:

In real estate, $6,000,000; machinery, $5,000,000; handcarriages on hand, $45,000,000; cash, $50,000,000; securities, $10,000,000. Those are the big items.

The figures only tell you about his corporations, giving no information about his own private fortune, any little amounts he may have saved up here and there and invested.

More than half a billion is given as the value of his property, but that doesn't mean anything. The increase in cash on hand over last year represents 6 percent on a thousand millions. That means nothing.

The real Ford fortune is in the FORD name. Burn his factories, destroy his machinery, wipe out his agencies and leave Henry Ford his NAME and that name is worth five thousand millions of dollars, and would sell for that if there were anybody rich enough to buy it.

Let that teach business men something about the value of a name created by advertising and fair dealing.

"This law is a queer business."
"How so?"
"They swear a man to tell the truth."
"What then?"
"And every time he shows signs of doing so, some lawyer objects."
